Evolutionary ergonomics

The telescopic stock, adjustable in length (265 to 340 mm), adapts to the shooter's morphology. Its cheekpiece, adjustable in three positions, optimizes aiming, even with an optic mounted on the Picatinny rail.

HP Tribore Canon

The Tribore HP barrel is a Fabarm exclusive process: it combines multiple bore sections into a single tube. This architecture reduces recoil and improves pattern consistency, even with bullets.

Choke Inner HP Accuracy

The Inner HP Accuracy choke optimizes shot density and consistency. It is designed to deliver enhanced accuracy, especially on medium-range targets.

Cerakote Carbon Grey finish

Cerakote finish is a ceramic coating applied to metal. Resistant to scratches, corrosion, and impact, it ensures increased durability while providing a modern, matte appearance.

Flip-up sights

The flip-up sights (adjustable diopter and front sight) allow for rapid and flexible acquisition, whether in mechanical sighting or in addition to an optical sight.

Accessories and modularity

The MIL-STD 1913 cantilever Picatinny rail allows for optics to be mounted and allows the barrel to be removed without loss of adjustment. Sling attachment points complete the weapon's practical ergonomics.
