Telescopic silencer, the big brother of the X108 with even more impressive acoustic performance.

- Projects 149 mm from the barrel

The interchangeable brow system basically means that you can have a Stalon XS108, for example, and add a Front 149 to it. Suddenly you have two models: XS108 and XS149. The same goes for adding a rear section. This creates endless possibilities if used in the right way.

The modular system also means that each accessory is available to optimize the silencer according to your preferences and tastes. Accessories for the X are compatible with all models in the series, for example, the open viewfinder, accessory holder and neoprene cover.

All Stalon silencers reduce recoil, which may be the most appreciated feature of a silencer.

- Optimized for medium calibers
- Excellent recoil reduction and stability
- Perfect for calmer forms of hunting

Stalon silencers have a long lifespan, being able to withstand approximately 20,000 shots when properly maintained. For the average hunter, this duration represents much more than a lifetime. Our products can withstand temperatures up to 250 degrees. The barrel mount, located behind the silencer, has a melting point of 200 degrees, indicating the need to cool the silencer before continuing to fire. The durability of a Stallion is difficult to match.
