Toor Knives' Horizontal Belt Loops have been designed to provide the user with a convenient and lightweight horizontal mounting option.

Although they are designed for belts, we have seen them used on many types of equipment. The straps themselves are made from a durable rubber with attached directional clips, which are button-style locking mechanisms trusted by the US military for airborne operations.

To lock and unlock this directional closure, you must first locate the locking tab on the female side of the button (this is a small deflection in the button ring).

When attaching the female side to the male side, make sure the opposite part of the locking tab is fully engaged, then simply press the rest of the button.

To unlock the mechanism, pull back the front of the button (closest to the edge of the strap) and it will release easily.
