The Daniel Defense V7 GOV is an optimized variant of the V7S, originally designed for the United States Armed Forces under a government contract.

Simac can supply this model in limited quantities for professionals and demanding shooters looking for a perfect balance between compactness and precision.

Equipped with an 11.5-inch barrel, this semi-automatic rifle benefits from the addition of an A2 front sight system and a Daniel Defense rear sight with peephole. It therefore comes with mechanical sights. Its exceptionally light weight of 2.3 kg makes it one of the most competitive options on the market for fast and handy performance, vital when it comes to being effective in local combat for intervention forces.
