Latest addition to the range of "Reflex Sight" sights with the FALKE CS which required a long development by German engineers.

It offers an optimal size / performance ratio, thanks to its compactness and while offering 4x magnification, which always brings more precision at longer distances while allowing effective aiming at short distances.

Its ballistic reticle allows both short-range reflex shots thanks to its illuminated central part, but also longer-range shots that may require corrections thanks to its drift and elevation graduations.

The quality of the optical coatings coupled with its 20 mm lens, provides significant clarity and sharpness.
