Simple and reliable conversion

The installation is done directly onto an already threaded barrel. Precise machining ensures a clean screw fit and consistent alignment. In practice, this is an efficient solution for expanding equipment options without permanently modifying the barrel.

Durable stainless steel

The choice of stainless steel guarantees good mechanical resistance as well as natural protection against corrosion. An important detail for a part exposed to stress and external elements.

Standard compatibility 5/8x24

The 5/8x24 thread is one of the most common standards for mouthpiece accessories. This conversion allows access to a wide range of compatible equipment, subject to compliance with applicable regulations.
