Carry your equipment and sit down between sets.

The Fabarm Signature E-737 backpack-stool combines a practical carrying solution with an integrated seat for clay pigeon shooting days. Its 900D polyester construction, reinforced by a concealed steel frame, is designed to accommodate movement between different shooting stations and waiting times at the range. Padded straps make carrying easy, while the main compartment holds several boxes of cartridges. Various zippered pockets allow you to organize essential accessories: shooting glasses and spare lenses, ear protection, a water bottle, snacks, a towel, or even a set of chokes and a choke wrench. A padded compartment is provided for Pilla Performance glasses. When it's time to wait your turn, the bag folds down to provide a comfortable seat thanks to its integrated steel frame.

This bag accompanies you during travel and waiting times at the shooting range by combining carrying, storage and seating in a single piece of equipment.

Carrying and storage

Padded straps allow you to carry equipment between different stations. The main compartment holds several boxes of cartridges, while zippered pockets organize the accessories needed for the day's activities.

Equipment organization

A padded compartment is provided for Pilla Performance goggles and spare lenses. The bag also has enough space to carry chokes, a key, ear protection, a water bottle, snacks, and a towel.

Integrated seat

The steel frame concealed within the structure transforms the bag into a stool when the user needs to wait between sets. This design avoids separating storage and seating during the workout.

Construction and identity Fabarm

The 900D polyester forms the basis of the construction. The zipped finishes, Fabarm markings and black and blue details reflect the visual identity of the Signature Gear range.
